B. Sculpture on the Move

Dan Tierney provided an update on this year's Sculpture on the Move program. The sculpture packets will be available on Monday, January 27, and draft day among participating cities will be Monday, February 24. This year's selection includes over 40 sculptures, with more than 15 cities participating in the program. The Committee will be selecting a new sculpture for the Dielmann Recreation Complex location.

Judy Pass asked if the Committee would consider purchasing the sculpture outside of the Creve Coeur Police Station. Dan Tierney stated that it is an option as per the contract but purchasing the sculpture would counter the original goal of having rotating art pieces in that location. The Committee agreed to discuss again at a future meeting, and a decision would need to be made by summertime.

The Committee agreed to reschedule the February meeting to Tuesday, February 11, in order to make their selection within the Sculpture on the Move program deadline.

C. Silver Screen Series 2020

Judy Pass stated that a committee member will need to take her place as the head volunteer to coordinate the Silver Screen Series. The Committee agreed to discuss this again at the next meeting.

Melissa Orscheln asked what are the responsibilities of the Arts Committee for the event versus what are the responsibilities of Maturity and Its Muse. Judy Pass stated that Maturity and Its Muse selects and obtains the films, finds the guests speakers, and promotes the event through its channels. The Committee assists with promotion through city channels and reports to the City Council.

The Committee discussed the need for a new venue this year that is ADA accessible, is affordable, has raked seating, and can meet the technological needs for the event. Jahn Epstein agreed to compile a list of possible venues based on the Committee's discussion.

6. Business from Members

Dan Tierney stated he is planning to resign from the Arts Committee in April after running for City Council. Judy Pass stated she is planning to resign from the Arts Committee in June. Due to this, the Committee discussed ideas for recruiting new members. Dan Tierney recommended that Committee members invite anyone interested in joining to the next meeting.

Judy Pass asked for an update on the beautification proposal for the Celebration of Community Sculpture. Melissa Orscheln stated she will send the revised memo to Dan Tierney, and next steps will be for Dan to meet with the Horticulture, Ecology and Beautification Committee chair to discuss the memo before presenting it to the City Council.

7. Business from Staff Liaison

Dimensions: 90'' x 41'' x 8''

Media: Steel

Maintenance:

Year Created: 2016

Price: $9700

From: Camanche, Iowa

Descriptions: This towering sculpture takes its title from a phenomenon in the science of hydraulics. When a fast moving liquid enters a zone of slow moving liquid, the fast flow is abruptly slowed and increases in height. At high enough speeds the front will break and curl back upon itself. The tension steel experiences when bent back upon itself is similar to this undulation and wave action. A series of waves

From: St. Louis, MO

Descriptions: This sculpture is a representation of the aspiration of all those in aviation. The figure is part plane, who looks skyward in search of the sky, but who is also tethered by legs and a wheel, the representation of our engineering limitations and human limitations. A being torn between two worlds.

Descriptions: Peace, love and understanding: Honor, armor, and sharp steel? Is it a graceful dancer on the stage giving the performance of a lifetime or an ancient samurai warrior of Japan marching into battle to defend his lands from invading hordes? One of the many wonders of abstract sculpture is tie into the viewer's perspective. I can see one aspect and others will see something completely different.

Descriptions: Charles draws his imagery from the world of nature and life experience. The fusion of man and nature is a predominate theme in Strain's sculpture. The aesthetic lines of the human figure and the celebration of human emotion are vehicles he uses as subject matter in his composition. Happiness, sadness, a moment in time, a familiar experience, a celebration, are some of the experiences that can be found when viewing his sculpture

Media: Wood, nails, and wood glue

Maintenance: Not listed

Year Created: 2019

Price: $200

From: Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Descriptions: I am a multidisciplinary artist working with sculpture, design, video, and drawing. My work explores the boundaries of language, design, and media to tell about my identity as a biracial woman. I use the theories and concepts of language to maneuver thoughts about the way I explain my identity to others in a comprehensible manner. Design and media used are determined by the emotion and energy I want the piece to radiate as the viewer experiences my personal hardships of articulating myself to them. I often use line and the organization of text to connect the piece to my personality.

Additional notes: The CCA is concerned about the size and durability of this piece.

Artist Name: John Bell

Artwork Name: Geodesic Dance

Dimensions: 101.5" x 42" x 25.5"

Media: Rebar, Metal, Nylon twine, pyramid mirror.

Maintenance: Perhaps the pentagon-based pyramid mirror will need occasional cleaning.

Price: $1000

From: Manchester, MO

Descriptions: “Geodesic Dance” provides an approving eye into technology but not a wholehearted embrace of it. The suspended icosahedron frame as well as the supporting stacked octahedron frame are geodesic structures in that they use geodesic struts and incorporate tensegrity. There’s movement but it’s relatively slow. In fact, this work is fundamentally about movement—embracing and combining three kinds of anchored movement—rotational, pendulum, and vibrational.

Artist Name: John Bell

Artwork Name: Geodesic Dance

Additional notes: With regards to stability in strong wind, I don't think that we need to be concerned. The piece actually offers little resistance. Using large washers with three large bolts firmly inserted into the concrete platform at each base joint should be sufficient to safeguard the piece against strong winds. The central metallic net that offers the greatest resistance is only loosely connected to the supporting frame. As a strong wind blows against it, the force will be gently absorbed, but will not destabilize the main structure.

Sculpture on the Move Draft Day

Monday, February 24th at 11:30 am
Chesterfield City Hall

690 Chesterfield Pkwy W, Chesterfield, MO 63017

Before then please:

- » Share these works with your selection panel.
- » Select 18 acceptable sculptures. (We have 17 communities participating this year. Your panel needs to select 17 sculpture options ranked #1 - #17 so even if you go last you are guaranteed that you will have an acceptable sculpture. It's extremely unlikely that you will end up far down your list, but we prepare for it just in case.)
- » Bring your list of 17 options to draft day, or if you can't attend, email your numbered selections to kschien@manchestermo.gov and we will ensure your top available choice is selected for you.
- » There will be additional rounds of selection that day if you want a second, or third sculpture.
